„....Offenbar sprang eine bestimmte Situation Kirchner so unausweichlich, so unmittelbar an, dass er sogleich zu Papier und Bleistift griff: „In der Ekstase des ersten Sehens“ – wie er es nannte – ,haute er das Motiv hin‘, fasziniert von einer überwältigenden Natur, der Nähe des Geschehens und einer unendlichen Ferne bis zum Horizont. Viel Raum, viel Zeit. Alles mit wenigen Strichen eingefangen; ...“

“... Apparently this particular situation made such an impression on Kirchner that he immediately picked up pencil and paper: ‘in ecstasy of the first impression’, as he put it – ‘he threw down the motif’ fascinated by overwhelming nature, the proximity to the scene and the endless distance to the horizon. So much space, so much time, captured with just a few lines; ...”

ERNST LUDWIG KIRCHNER

(Aschaffenburg 1880 - 1938 Frauenkirch near Davos)

Bathers at the Beach of Fehmarn, 1912

Graphite

46 x 59 cm

Signed and dated twice lower right: "E L Kirchner / E L Kirchner 1912"

On verso entitled: "Badende am Meer" and with the estate stamp: "B Be/Bf 8"

Provenance:

Private collection, Germany

Our drawing was executed during Kirchner’s productive three-month holiday of 1912 in Fehmarn on the Baltic Sea. The location is given by the two boulders in the background: these stand in the island’s south-east, near the Staberhuk lighthouse.

We kindly thank Prof. Gerd Presler for his essay, 2019.

„...Wie aus einem Guß ist dieser Akt,
so schlagend ist die Kraft der Gebärde im Umriß eingefangen und das Volumen des Körpers durch die Farbe in der Fläche bezwungen. Etwas Kolossalischес liegt darin, aber nichts Derbes, dafür sorgt die Zartheit der Lavierung...“

“...The power of its gesture, captured in outline and the volume of the body forced into the picture plane by color, allowing this nude to appear as if it were cast from a seamless mold. Somehow colossal, but never crude, thanks to the delicacy of the wash...”

LOVIS CORINTH

(Tapiau/East Prussia 1858 - 1925 Zandvoort)

Self-portrait, 1924/25

Charcoal

34 x 24 cm

Signed lower right: "Lovis Corinth"

Provenance:

Private collection, Rhineland

With an essay by Prof. Dr. Thomas Deecke, dated May 16, 2015.

This late self-portrait is a prime example of the artist's analytical deconstruction of his own visage. The self-portrait comprises a major theme of his life-long oeuvre.

We are pleased to present a group of outstanding expressionist drawings and watercolors.

Beginning with the drawing of a young man by Ferdinand Hodler from 1900/01, a prime example of masterful symbolism bordering on expressionism, our works by Kirchner and Schmidt-Rottluff from the Brücke years 1912/1913 showcase the modernist gift of drawing the moving figure. A typical dissolving watercolor with sunflowers by Emil Nolde (1930), a powerful gouache by Christian Rohlfs influenced by Nolde and an abstracted self-portrait by Lovis Corinth from the year of his death (1925), as well as a red chalk drawing from Oskar Kokoschka's mature period round off this group of expressionist masterworks on paper.

We look forward to welcoming you at TEFAF Maastricht and the Salon du Dessin, Paris.
